

CODE OF CONDUCT

The National Center on Sexual Exploitation (NCOSE) is dedicated to facilitating a conference that helps participants:

- build a sense of connectedness and unity
- seize opportunities to participate in strategy development to help grow the movement to end sexual exploitation
- learn new information and strengthen skills

Those attending the Coalition to End Sexual Exploitation (CESE) Global Summit agree to:

- bring a spirit of open-mindedness, welcoming, and respect for different opinions
- create an atmosphere appropriate for high-level relationship building
- refrain from political or polarizing comments that divide
- respect confidentiality

We encourage participants to use the CESE Online Global Summit to its full potential by:

- engaging in workshops
- asking questions of the organizers, presenters, and other participants
- holding non-judgmental and constructive conversation with other attendees
- providing feedback in a courteous and respectful manner

NCOSE does not tolerate or condone harassment in any form. It is counter to our mission to defend human dignity.

NCOSE reserves the right to sanction or expel conference participants who violate these rules without refund at the discretion of conference organizers.

Please bring any concerns or questions to the attention of conference organizers at events@ncose.com.
